He will remain for a few days, then go to Caliente, Nev., where a new church is being completed. From Caliente he will go to Pioche, where he labored as first pastor thirty-eight years ago. Pioche at that time could be reached only by stage, and it took three days and nights' journeying through sagebrush to get there from the nearest point on the Southern Pacific railroad. Now there is a branch line of the S. P. L. A. & S. L. railway from Caliente to that once famous mining camp.

Coronation Ceremony.

From the Salt Lake Herald.
"Suffer the little children to come unto me."

The touching and beautiful sentiment of the Man of Galilee was the spirit that predominated in the pretty and impressive ceremony of the coronation of the image of the Blessed Virgin Mary with a wreath of roses by the little children at the chapel of St. Mary's pro-cathedral last evening. Two hundred and ten lit-

Fisher-Davidson.

A pretty home wedding of last Tuesday morning was that of Miss Alice Fisher and Frederic B. Davidson, which took place at the Fisher home at 11 o'clock. Only the very closest friends and relatives were present, numbering sixteen in all. The solemn service was read by Very Rev. Father D. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. White of Colorado and Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Jeffers attending the bride and groom.

The children ranging in ages from 3 to 16 years bore garlands of sweet flowers to the statue of Mary and closed the ceremony with the singing of "The Hail Mary." The coronation service was read by Very Rev. Father D. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. White of Colorado and Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Jeffers attending the bride and groom.

The coronation service opened with the hymn by the children's choir, "Mary, Crowned With Roses." Little Catherine Owens repeated the act of consecration to the Sacred Heart. The choir then sang "Come, Gather at the Altar." The act of consecration to the Blessed Virgin was repeated by Eugene Mercer.

The processional preceding the coronation opened with the singing of the solo, "Hail Mary," by Marguerite Locke, 5 years of age. The procession was led by the Very Rev. Father Denis Kelly, vicar general of the diocese of Salt Lake, followed by the cross, incense bearers, and twenty acolytes under the direction of Ray Channing. Then came little Dorothy May White, who was chosen to crown the statue, accompanied by her maid of honor, Helen Kearns, Mary Lynch, Margaret and Mary O'Brien, Orietta Brooks and Helen Steiner. Eugene Mercer, the crown bearer, led all of the boys and girls with their garlands and bouquets.

Calmly little Miss White ascended the flowered ladder and placed on the head of the statue the beautiful crown of roses. At the close of the simple coronation the boys and girls, singing and wailing, barked their bouquets and wreaths at the foot of the altar.

Rev. Father W. K. Ryan preached a brief sermon on the significance of the ceremony. Rt. Rev. Laurence Scanlan, bishop of Salt Lake, gave the benediction of the blessed sacrament.

At the conclusion of the benediction, with either hand on the head of a little tot immediately in front of him, the bishop, in a voice that showed that it was his emotion that controlled, repeated the words of the Savior:

"Suffer the little children to come unto me."

Then he thanked the little children for their devotion and said he trusted the Blessed Virgin would watch over their innocent lives and keep them pure and devoted.

OGDEN, UTAH.

(Special Correspondence.)
Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald and daughter, Miss Louise Scott, have returned from an extended visit in California.

Mr. Paul Stocher, who has been sight-seeing on the Pacific coast for the past month, returned during the week, bringing with him a pair of prize dogs, the only doghouse in Utah.

Decoration day was observed in the usual patriotic manner in Ogden. The rain, which had been falling during the week, ceased long enough to coax people from their homes, and the celebration took on extra color. Memorial services were followed by pleasure excursion to various resorts; the majority of Ogdenites flocking to the fair grounds, where horses and automobiles vied in arousing enthusiasm.

Commencement exercises for the graduates of the state school for the deaf and blind were held in the gymnasium at the school Monday night. There were eight graduates, two from the high school and six from the eighth grade. An excellent program was rendered exceptionally well, considering the natural disadvantages under which the students labor.

Teachers for the city schools have been named for the ensuing year, and it is worthy of note that in many cases the same incumbents have been chosen. Many took out-going trains during the past week and will spend the summer at their respective homes in various states or week diversion and instruction in the east.

Though postponed from Sunday evening, owing to the inclemency of the weather, the procession of the Children of Mary in honor of the Blessed Virgin, held last Tuesday, lost none of its devotional features. The lowering skies and threatening clouds smiled for an hour or two and permitted the white-robed maidens to form ranks in Liberty park and march to the church, where beautifully decorated altars shone in all their splendor under a blaze of electric lights.

About 150 entered the church, headed by Miss Rae Hock, the president, who carried the banner of the sodality. Assisted by Miss Madge Leonard, she bore Our Lady's emblem around the aisles and finally deposited it before the altar. The singing was devotional in the extreme. Miss Colman, rendered an Ave Maria in her usual excellent style; it was followed by a prayerful little hymn by Miss McNulty, and all the members of the sodality joined in the old yet touching "Maiden Non Est In Te," during which Miss Hock crowned Our Lady, Miss O'Neill's reading of the Act of consecration was simple and devotional, every syllable ringing through the vast edifice, and proving that prayer to be audible need not be clattery. After the Rosary had been said, Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given.

A very welcome visitor to Sacred Heart last Monday was Professor A. C. Wilks, of Idaho Falls, who, en route to Texas, his old home, called on Miss Colman of the class of '08. Though it was Professor Williams' first visit to the academy, he is no stranger to its inmates, whose work he appreciates in very forcible terms. A successful teacher himself, he is a value musical worth wherever he finds it.

Mrs. Dan Gamble of Peterson, Utah, is in Ogden, where she intends remaining until the graduation of her daughter, who is a member of the class of '08, Sacred Heart academy. Her son, Lester R., received his diploma from the high school last week.

That's the only kind of companies we will represent. Is YOUR insurance in that kind of a company? Better be safe. If you do business with us, you may know you're safe.
